A Brief History of Zion Parish

In 1819 a meeting was called by the Episcopalians resident in the district of Southwark, Philadelphia to consider the establishment of an Episcopal Church in the district. Beginning in July, 1819 services were held every Sunday evening by the Rev. William B. Richmond, who was employed by the Society for the Advancement of Christianity in Pennsylvania.

The cornerstone of Trinity Church was laid by Bishop White on April 23, 1821. The Church, located at Third and Catherine Streets, was consecrated on January 17, 1822, having cost $8,065. The Rev. Manning B. Roche was called as the first Rector of the Parish.

Episcopal Services were held in a rented Church building in the western part of Kensington beginning on December 1, 1842 by the Rev. Jacob M. Douglas. On January 27, 1849 a meeting of persons favorable to the establishment of an Episcopal Church was held. A Vestry was organized and the Rev. Jacob M. Douglas was named the first Rector of Zion Church.

The cornerstone of the Church, located at Eighth Street and Columbia Avenue, was laid by the Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter on May 21, 1856. First services were held in the basement of the new Church on May 10, 1857.

The last services were held in Trinity Church, Third and Catherine Streets on July 14, 1907. Services were begun in a rented Church building at Sixteenth and Cayuga Streets. In 1912 Bishop Rhinelander granted permission for Trinity Church to establish a Parish Sunday School and Chapel in a building at 4825 Camac Street, formerly used by the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Child.

The present Parish House and Rectory building and the land on which the Church is located were purchased in 1913 for the sum of $40,000. Renovations were made and services commenced in the new building, supplanting both the Church at Sixteenth and Cayuga Streets and the Chapel on Camac St.

The Rev. Charles H. Long was appointed by Bishop Rhinelander in October 1918 to take charge of Trinity Church and complete the merger with Zion Church. On November 3, 1919 Trinity Church, Southwark and Zion Church merged into one Church Corporation, and became known as Zion Church, Philadelphia with services held at Broad Street and Wyoming Avenue.

The cornerstone of the present Church building was laid in 1921. First services were held in the new Church on July 25, 1922. The building was consecrated by Bishop Garland on Christmas morning, December 25, 1924. The Rev. Charles H. Long was called to be the Rector of the merged Church on April 25, 1922.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF ZION PARISH

In 1819 a meeting was called by the Episcopalians resident in the district of Southwark, Philadelphia, to consider the establishment of an Episcopal Church in the district. Beginning in July, 1819, services were held every Sunday evening by the Rev. William B. Richmond, who was employed by the Society for the Advancement of Christianity in Pennsylvania.

The cornerstone of Trinity Church was laid by Bishop White on April 21, 1821. The Church, located at Third and Catherine Sts. was consecrated on January 17, 1822, having cost $8,065. The Rev. Manning B. Roche was called as the first Rector of the Parish.

Episcopal services were held in a rented Church building in the western part of Kensington beginning on December 1, 1848, by the Rev. Jacob M. Douglas. On January 27, 1849, a meeting of persons favorable to the establishment of an Episcopal Church was held. A Vestry was organized, and the Rev. Jacob M. Douglas was named the first Rector of Zion Church.

The cornerstone of the Church, located at Eighth Street and Columbia Avenue, was laid by the Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter on May 21, 1856. First services were held in the basement of the new church on May 10, 1857.

The last services were held in Trinity Church, Third and Catherine Streets on July 14, 1907. Services were begun in a rented church building at Sixteenth and Cayuga Streets. In 1912, Bishop Rhinelander granted permission for Trinity Church to establish a Parish Sunday School and Chapel in a building at 4825 N. Camac Street, formerly used by the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Child.

The present Parish House and Rectory building and the land on which the Church is located were purchased in 1913 for the sum of $40,000. Renovations were made and services commenced in the new building, supplanting both the Church at Sixteenth and Cayuga Streets and the Chapel on Camac St.

The Rev. Charles H. Long was appointed by Bishop Rhinelander in October 1918 to take charge of Trinity Church and complete the merger with Zion Church. On November 3, 1919, Trinity Church, Southwark, and Zion Church merged into one Church Corporation, and became known as Zion Church, Philadelphia, with services held at Broad Street and Wyoming Avenue.

The cornerstone of the present Church building was laid in 1921. First services were held in the new church on July 25, 1922. The building was consecrated on Christmas morning, December 25, 1924. The Rev. Charles H. Long was called to be the Rector of the merged Church on April 25, 1922.
